

LEAVE A LEGACY

Honor your loved one by placing their name among some of the most celebrated astronauts in history.

Some of the most famous and important explorers in human history, including Tom Stafford, Neil Armstrong, Gene Cernan, Russian Alexei Leonov, and most of the legendary astronauts who flew to the moon have spent time in the Stafford Museum. They all entered the facility walking up the path by the iconic Apollo "boilerplate" spacecraft.

This famous pathway has now been paved with nearly 1,500 paving stones that are available to be inscribed with the names of people or dates that are very special to you. Imagine your name, or the names of other special people being immortalized on the same pathway that has been walked and inscribed by some of the greatest legends of our time.

Personalized paving stones may be purchased in three different sizes, and will be engraved with the words of your choice. By purchasing a brick, you not only honor those special heroes in your life, but also help to support the museum's education and development programs.

Bring this completed form to the museum and we will get you or your loved one added to our pathway!
